Penn.

Penn lies S.W. of Wolverhampton and as a geographical expression was originally applied to a tract of land extending westward from the Colton hills. It is possible that the name originated in this "summit," if Penn is a Welsh word like several other place-names of this neighbourhood. (Compare Pensnett, near Dudley). In the Wolverhampton charter of 994, a "Pen-way" is mentioned which was a road near Bushbury. But at a site probably on or near the Colton hills lay Beorgith's stone, doubtless the same as the Byrngyth's stone of a charter of 985, which marked the boundary between Sedgley and Bilston. (S.H.C. 1916, pp. 102, 107.)

Under the Saxons Penn was rated as a five hide unit, and (Lower) Penn formed 3/5 of another unit. This denotes comparative prosperity at an early date, that the district provided eight taxable households or homesteads by the ninth century. Two of these were doubtless Muchall and the Lude (Lloyd).

Both the Penns, as Domesday Book further tells us, had been owned by the Mercian Earls. In the time of Edward the Confessor, (Lower) Penn was the Lady Godiva's while (Upper) Penn belonged to Aelfgar her son (? d. 1062); and until his death in 1071, Aelfgar's son (Earl Edwin) had four burgages in Stafford town which belonged to his estate at Penn. It was probably in 1071, therefore, on the eschaet of the Mercian earldom, that these estates were granted to the Dudley baron, William fitz Ansculf, who placed his own tenants in them—in (Upper) Penn, Robert, and in (Lower) Penn, Gislebert. Both these men held some of the neighbouring manors, but neither appear to have founded the families which subsequently held Penn.

It will be convenient to consider these two manors Upper (or Over) and Nether (or Lower) Penn separately as they passed through different hands.

UPPER PENN.

Upper Penn, which was held with Bushbury by one Robert shortly after the Conquest, was afterwards held by another servant (the steward) of the Baron of Dudley, named Peter, who was otherwise known as Peter of Birmingham. His son Hugh (fitz Peter) settled at Bushbury, married the lady Eva (probably an heiress of the place) and founded the family "de Bushbury" which during the feudal ages likewise owned Penn. As this family and their successors the Grosvenors lived at Bushbury and properly belong to that parish little more need be said of them here. In the time of Henry VIII. Penn was sold to James Leveson with whose heirs it remained until the present Duke of Sutherland sold out nearly all his rights here about three years ago. Penn is known for its breezy common (and golf-course) of some 135 acres in extent.

LOWER PENN.

Within a generation of Domesday, Lower Penn was held by a family of the name of Buffar or Buffery. Sometimes the place was called Penn Buffar to distinguish it from the other Penn. Their names and dates may briefly be given.

William Buffary I.
William Buffary II., oc. 1166, 1189, dead before 1199.
William B. tertius, oc. 1199—1227.
Roger Buffary (? son), oc. 1255, 1262, dead before 1269.
Robert, son of Roger, of full age 1272, living 1309, d. c. 1315.
Robert, son of Robert, lord 1323, oc. 1333.
Thomas (? nephew), lord 1356, oc. 1327, killed 1381.
Sir William B., lord of Nether Penn, Orton and Wombourne, oc. 1358, a Knt. 1378, living 1382.
John B. (son), oc. 1412, dead 1423.
William (son of John), 1423, oc. 1442, d. s. p. 1443.
Joan (sister) married John Burnett, oc. 1442.

With the Burnetts the manor continued until eventually the land was sold to freeholders or bought by the Leveson and Wrottesley families, with whose descendants it remained. This township is entirely rural.

In Lower Penn was also a family formerly of importance of the name of Warine (de Penne). It dates from the 12th century, and its members were usually called Warin or fitz warin. Probably the ancient family of Waring, of the Lea, in Wolverhampton, was of this stock.

THE CHURCH.

The parish of Penn must originally have formed part of either Sedgley or Wombourne—probably the latter. It comprised the manors of Upper and Lower Penn and the part of Trescote which lies south of the brook. In 1859 the parish of Penn Fields was formed on the Wolverhampton side.

Penn church (dedicated to St. Bartholomew) was probably founded by one of the earlier lords of Bushbury and Penn. The suit about the advowson in 1242 shows that it was in existence in the first years of that century when John of Wolverhampton was presented to the living by Hugh de Bushbury. It appears that his son, another Hugh, gave the church to Alexander, bishop of Lichfield (1224–38) because having married within the prohibited degrees and being brought to account by the bishop, he wished that neither he nor his wife should be vexed further in the matter. In future the bishops presented until the right was granted to the vicars choral or their assigns by Bishop Norbury in 1350. (S.H.C. vi. ii. 31.)

In the present building few signs remain of the ancient edifice. Two ancient bays of the nave arcade exist, but the chancel is modern, having replaced one erected in brick in 1799 by Mrs. Ellen Pershouse and Richard Bayley Marsh, heirs of Thomas Bradney, Esq., of Penn Hall. The tower was considered "a neat piece of brickwork, erected in 1765," doubtless owing to the advanced decay of the sandstone of which the former one was built. A 15th century font was rescued from the churchyard where, reversed, it had been used as a base for a sundial. It was during some excavations in 1912, prior to the repair of the (square-based) churchyard cross, that the remains of a much earlier (? early 13th century) cross—those of a portion of a round pillar on a rounded base—were discovered underneath. The latter has been preserved in situ, while the former has been moved to the south-west corner of the churchyard and suitably "restored."

THE VICARS.

The following list of vicars may be considered practically complete, repeated lawsuits concerning the advowson enabling the earlier ones to be given. It is not likely that the church existed before the reign of King John.

			Patron.
	Before 1216.	John "le clerk" of Wolverhampton; d. 1242 (S.H.C. iv. 96).	Hugh de Bushbury.

THE REGISTER.

The first volume of the parish registers is a narrow folio of roughly 16½ by 5½ inches, re-bound in half-morocco about the year 1828. It consists of 46 folios of baptisms (excluding the first leaf and two leaves of memoranda):—

12 fo. of weddings (and 3 misplaced) and 31 fo. of burials.

95 in all.

It is in good condition and for the most part easily legible.

According to the inscription on p. 2, the book was bought 1 June, 1598. The record, however, begins in Jan., 1569-70, "by William Tayler vicar," and so the entries are copies of an older register until July, 1598. Again, the vicar until 1572 was Thomas Fox, which points to William Taylor starting at Penn as curate in charge. There was a curate of this name at Kingswinford in 1568. The handwriting, which shows illiterate tendencies, continues until Oct., 1623 (the next entry being in January), and is probably that of John Taylor who appears in the bishop's return of 1593 as "scholaris ruralis, in sacris litteris eruditus" and in the Puritan return of 1604 as "no preacher." Another handwriting begins in Jan., 1623-4, and another, a good flowing but untidy hand, from June 1624 to April, 1641. Probably both were those of curates. A handwriting shown in the burials from May, 1641, to Dec., 1642, evidently marks the period of Samuel Smith, who was probably afterwards (1652) the minister of Kinver. Of the different hands which follow there are two certain instances of Christopher Lee's writing (being baptisms of his children, 1644-5, entered in Latin) and apparently there are others in 1652. Though removed in 1646 he therefore probably lingered in the neighbourhood. Charles Winne's hand does not appear before June, 1647 (marriages), and this and another (clearer) hand take share about during the Commonwealth period. Charles Winne's writing ends in June, 1667 (earlier in the baptisms), two years before his death.

There is a change of writing in 1676 when a clerky hand continues the record to 1691. This was evidently the work of William Dalton, clerk, whose burial appears in October, 1692. From 1691 there is a slovenly hand which lasts in various moods until 1703. The writing of Mr. John Raban appears occasionally from Dec., 1674. The remaining hands were probably those of parish clerks. Another William Dalton died in March, 1744-5.

Surveyed as a whole, Penn was clearly not a parish where the vicars were usually resident even in comparatively recent times. The charitable Charles Winne is a notable exception, and he is also remarkable as one of those who survived the Act of 1662. He paid tax in 1663 for three hearths. John Rabon was probably a native. Cradock and Ellison had also posts at Wolverhampton; while Henry Moore, afterwards archdeacon, was vicar of Eccleshall as well as Penn.

THE HAMLETS.

i. The Lloyd.

The place called the Lloyd forms an almost isolated part of Lower Penn and no doubt dates from the very beginnings of history. There can be very little doubt it was one of the early Saxon homesteads and its name (a puzzle to philologists) may well be of British origin. It appears in documents (as Lude) not earlier than 13th century, but only because earlier writings fail.

In this manor in 1086 there was one freeman (un-named), but there is other evidence to show who he was, and reason to believe he lived at the Lloyd. In 1211 Hugh fitz Peter (of Bushbury) was sued by one Henry le Notte for a considerable amount of land in Bushbury and Penn which his ancestress Aillena, daughter of Gudmund, had held. A full pedigree was set out and the suit was compromised by a grant of land. (S.H.C.i. 191-2, iv. 17.) A calculation places Gudmund co-eval with the Conquest, which he apparently survived as a free tenant with the Norman lords of Penn set over him. His name marks him a Dane. In an early deed (temp. Edw. I.) Robert Buffary grants land at Lude called Guthmond's land (deeds in Shaw, ii. 220-1) to Thomas, son of William "de la putte de la Lude," and later Thomas in the Putte of the Lude grants a house in the Lude and a place called Gouchmondesley in Over Penne. The same occurs again in 1343, and the site would probably lie S.W. of the church.

Besides the Pitt, there was also hereabouts the Hill (de Monte; 1343, Hull) of the Lude, and a place called (c. 1300) Hannoke's Moor. In 1610 Thomas Burnett sold Hannoke's Moor (otherwise Luyd meadow) to Francis Wodehouse. . . . (Shaw ii. 216.) In 1586 William Bradney, of the Lyde, died. In 1636-9 Bennett Bradeley and Jane Bradeley, widow, died, both of the Lyde, as was Edward Baker in 1643. It was afterwards occupied by a family of the name of Russell (cp. burials, 1680, 1722). Until his death in 1796 the Lloyd House was the residence of John Marsh, Esq., "an opulent magistrate of the country," (Shaw ii. *221) who probably built the present house, and with his family it remained. It was the residence of Rev. Preb. William Dalton, B.D. (who married Miss Marsh), who was builder and first vicar (1834-60) of St. Paul's Church, Wolverhampton. Some years ago it was purchased by the present occupier, George Macpherson, Esq., D.L., J.P.

ii. Muchall.

North-east of the church, under the Colton hills, lies Muchall, anciently a homestead and later a hamlet in this parish. It means "Great Hall" simply, but the forms the word takes are most numerous, partly because of the different spellings (e.g., Michel) of Much. Thomas de Migehall occurs in 1274; Hamond de Mushulle about 1300; also Thomas de Mosehull. There was a Robert de Muchale in 1343. The parish register shows that people who lived here were called (1573) "of Mycholl" or "a mycholl," "a micholes," &c., the origin of many a surname of Mitchell. William Larrance, of Mycholl, died in 1596-7; Margery, wife of John Muchall, of Muchall, in 1645; Thomas Laurence, of Muchall, in 1673, and so on. A family of gentry, "Carey of Moushall," were apparently owners of this place during 17th century; but they lived rather in Kingswinford, Thomas Carey, gent., dying in 1642, and Mr. Thomas Carey, "a decayed gent.," in 1716, after which the Careys fell on evil days. Muchall "Hall" (as the place was misnamed) was "the property and residence of William Thacker, esq.," in 1817, and in 1851 that of his son Robert Thacker, who, incidently, made a Gretna Green match 2 Nov., 1827, with the daughter of W. F. Fryer, of the Wergs. (M.S. Diary of W. Warner.) Randle S. Walker and Richard Warner had votes for Muchall in 1868. Mr. A. E. Thompson now lives there.

iii. Trescote Grange.

The ancient homestead, known as Trescote Grange, lies in the parish of Penn, and is of considerable historical interest. In 985 King Ethelred granted one manse at Trescote to the Lady Wulfrun, who appears to have granted it in 994 to Wolverhampton Church, in whose possession (as "Cote") it was found in 1086. About 100 years later, having got into lay hands, it was granted to the monks of Combe, Warwickshire, who had a Grange there until the time of Henry VIII.'s reforms. As early as 1271, brother John Burel and others from the abbey were accused of stealing the King's venison from Kinver Forest, in which this district lay. Afterwards this grange (whose fish ponds can still be traced) was used as a dwelling-house by families of gentry for some 200 years.

William Wollaston, who died in 1604, had acquired it from the assignee of the Crown in 1557. Hugh Wollaston (b. 1553) died possessed of it in 1610. During the minority of his son Edward it was leased (26 Mar., 1612) to Sir Walter Leveson, of Wolverhampton, and a few years later it was occupied by Hervey Bagot (cr. Baronet in 1628) till about 1623. Three of his sons, Edward, Hervey, and Richard, were born here in 1616-7-8. Of these, Hervey was Colonel and holding Lichfield for the King in 1646; Richard, also a Colonel and famous as Governor of Lichfield, 1643-5, died of wounds received at Naseby. From Edward the present Lord Bagot is descended.

It will be seen that the Register makes many allusions to the inhabitants of "the Grange" from the burial of Jane, wife of William Wollaston, in 1591. Presumably it was on the death of Edward W. in 1629 that William Chapman bought the estate. He died in 1645 (and his son in 1656). The inscription on his monument is preserved in "Shaw." "The Grange New House" (John Muchall's) occurs in 1682 (and compare bapt., 1676), and Mr. William Shelton, of "the Grange Hall," died in 1728. The property is now Lord Wrottesley's. The house, converted into cottages, has many marks of antiquity, and forms a good basis from which a restorer of wealth and imagination could build and improve.

iv. Furnace Grange.

On the extreme west of the parish of Lower Penn lies Furnace Grance, now a farm house. Presumably here was once an apparatus for smelting and treating iron, the fuel being from then existing woods, the power from the stream. A William Phillipps apparently lived here about 1637, his widow, "of the Furnace," being mentioned in 1641 (bapt.). One Mr. Thomas Smyth, of the Grange Furnace, died in 1666, and later (among the baptisms) are mentioned Francis Wirsedale (1718), Mr. John Hawkins (1724), William Carter (1726), and Robant Rostance (1734), all of this place.

v. Castlecroft.

In Lower Penn also is Castlecroft. Dr. Plot (1686) mentions a field here of that name. Afterwards there would appear to have been a farm-house. It is shown on the Map of 1791. Soon after Mr. Joseph Tarratt, a merchant of Wolverhampton, bought the estate, and built (probably) the house here. John Langley, of Castlecroft, was the only voter in the township who voted against the conservative candidates in the election of 1868. In the same year the property was purchased by the late Mr. A. C. Twentyman (then of Tettenhall) and with his family it remains.

vi. Merryhill.

About a mile and a half N.N.W. of the church, where six lanes meet, is the hamlet of Merryhill. Perhaps it is so called in contrast with Merridale (in Wolverhampton), one mile distant. A toft called Muryhulls is mentioned in a deed of 1397. (Shaw ii. *221).

vii. Puttley.

Land and the wood of Putteley are mentioned as early as 1262. (S.H.C. v. i. 139.) There are two recorded cases in 1286 of men of the locality killing stags in the wood of Puttesleye, which appears to have been near "la Lude" (ib. 159). In some ancient Wombourne deeds, Pottelith field occurs. (Shaw ii. 213.) This is probably roughly equivalent to the place called in old deeds Putte de la Lude, Puttes, &c., situated at the narrow neck of land which connects the Lloyd with the bulk of Lower Penn. Bearnett House stands here now. On the authority of its owner, Colonel H. H. Ward, the name of the house was originally "Putley," so called after the name of the field in which it was built. His uncle changed it to "Bearnett" after a field adjoining. Bearnett (there is a farm of this name over the Wombourne boundary) may perhaps be derived from the Burnett family of Wombourne and Lower Penn. There are many fields here called Big, Wild, Long—Putley, &c., and Putley (however it may be spelt) is certainly the more ancient name.

THE INHABITANTS.

Both in the Muster Roll of 1539 and in the earlier part of the parish register the following personal names are found which were more or less established in the village. In Overpenn: Bache, Bradeley, and Jannes. In Netherpenn: Cartwright, Luffingham, Wollaston, Burnett, Garbett, and Kyrkam. To these should be added Muchell (or, a-mycholl) and Bradney. Later appear Rabon, Groves, Whitmore, and Swane (Swene), and later still Daulton and Noake. In the middle of the 18th century began the invasion from Wolverhampton, and the older surnames in many instances disappeared.

The more important householders who paid Hearth Tax in 1664 and the number of hearths for which they were assessed are as follows:—

Upper Penn.		Nether Penn.
Charles Winne, clerk	3	John Finch, Esq.	12
Will. Bach & Rich. Gold	5	Thomas Whitmore	4
Walter Rabon	3	Walter Greene	3
Robert Bradeley	4	John Bradeley	5
William Fairchild	3	John Smith	3
John Milward	3	Samuel Bradeley	3
Walter & Mrs. Swayne	2	John Russell	3
Thomas Lawrence	2
Humphrey Cartwright	3
56 in all;		49 in all=total 105 hearths.

The only unusual Christian name met with is that of Kinborrough (d. 1730), the wife of Walter Swain. This name was borne by two further generations at least (cf. bapts., 1696, 1732, 1736).

THE ALMSHOUSES AND SCHOOL.

Though not a native of Penn, Dr. Raphael Sedgwick was before his death in 1767 its most prominent inhabitant and generous benefactor. His own issue failing, he seems to have left his property to the brother-in-law of his second wife (Thomas Bradney, who indeed left it to the issue of his third wife). The second Mrs. Ann Sedgwick died in 1761, and the almshouses were then founded in accordance with her wish. They still stand, five in number, S.E. of the church.

On the road to Lower Penn stand the small schoolhouse and school (disused) which were built in 1714 and endowed with funds mainly provided by Charles Winne, the Cromwellian vicar. In 1851 it was called the Free School, and provided education for all the poor in the village, some 60 boys and 40 girls.

HOUSES OF NOTE.

Foremost among the buildings comes Penn Hall, an early Georgian house which both in situation and appearance commands approval. A rather poor view of this house is given in Shaw's history, vol. ii., it being then (1800) the property of Mrs. Ellen Pershouse (who had married into a Wolverhampton family of that name). She was the daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Bradney, J.P., D.L. (1710-82), formerly also of Wolverhampton and high sheriff in 1752, and it was to his wealth that this building is owed. Dr. Wilkes (d. 1760) wrote: "In Over Penne Thomas Bradney, esq., has completed a good house, designed by his predecessors, Dr. Sedgwick and his wife, for a hospital. The situation . . . is very pretty and pleasant, though open to the North." (Shaw ii. 218.) On the death of William Bradney Pershouse, the Hall was let first to Mr. John W. Sparrow (who afterwards built "Beckminster"), and afterwards to Mr. William Underhill. In 1896 the estate was sold to the present occupier, Colonel T. F. Waterhouse, D.S.O., D.L., who (under the late Mr. H. T. Hare, F.R.I.B.A.) has re-modelled and improved the building. It is curious that for purposes of title it was necessary to presume the death of the owner, the last Pershouse of Penn.

Of other large houses there may be mentioned: Penn Court (built by William Mander Sparrow, D.L.), until 1913 the residence of Mr. Victor Hickman; Beckminster, the doomed seat of Mr. Isaac Sparrow; The Woodlands (built in 1896 for Neville Hanbury Mander—d. 1919—by Mr. H. T. Hare, on the site of a former house); The Beeches (Mr. F. J. Gibbons'), a fine "Georgian" brick house.

The road which leads from Wolverhampton became during the reign of Queen Victoria a residential suburb. This it still remains, but smaller houses have sprung up in place of the large, and former owners have tended to move away.

The transcript of the register was begun by the late vicar (Mr. Holden) and Miss Phyllis Twentyman. It was completed and the historical notice was prepared by Gerald P. Mander. The best thanks of the Society are due to them and to the Rev. Edgar Hartill for allowing access to the Register.
